Biographical Sketch

June 2017

Mark Zelig joined the Salt Lake City Police Department after earning a Bachelor's Degree from Brigham Young University. Upon completing a Master's degree in School Psychology, he took a leave of absence from the police department and obtained a doctoral degree from the University of Alabama in Clinical Psychology. He returned to the police department and served his internship at the Salt Lake City Veteran's Medical Center, where he completed rotations in Neurology, Surgery, and Inpatient Psychiatry, and conducted neuropsychological evaluations. He was subsequently promoted to Sergeant and Lieutenant, and retired from the police department after 25 years of service.

Dr. Zelig has a national independent practice in forensic, police, and clinical psychology, with offices in Anchorage and Salt Lake City. He frequently serves as an expert witness or trial consultant for civil and criminal cases involving psychologically-based evidence. As a forensic consultant to numerous police and governmental agencies, he frequently does pre-employment screening of applicants for high-risk or information-sensitive positions. He conducts fitness-for-duty and practice evaluations, including those instances when workplace violence potential is an issue.

He has testified in over 1000 cases, including criminal cases while he served on the police department. Combining his experience as a police officer with his formal education, he also consults on homicides and sex crimes, and provides risk assessments of potentially violent or sexually aggressive individuals. He provides professional-level workshops on the above topics.

In 1998 he was elected by his peers to chair the Police and Public Safety Psychology Section of the APA – then the world's largest organization of police psychologists. In 1999, he was appointed to serve on a committee for the Attorney General of the United States tasked with identifying "best practices" in police recruitment and selection, and as a part of that service convened with President Clinton. He was honored in 2001 by being elected by the University of Utah chapter of The National Society of Collegiate Scholars, Washington, DC, as its Distinguished Member. He was named Distinguished Speaker by the APA for its Continuing Professional Education Seminar at the annual convention, held in August 2002 in Chicago.

From 2004-2006 he served on the Committee on Legal Issues, charged with advising the Board of Directors and the President of the APA on various issues regarding public and APA policy and providing input for proposed APA policy positions and amicus briefs for the United States Supreme Court and other appellate courts. The Board of Directors of the APA appointed him to their Committee on Continuing Education (2007-2009). From 2010-2011, he served as the co-chairperson of the Ethics Consultation Committee of the Police Psychology Section of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Since 2016, he has served on the Continuing Education Steering Committee for the Academy of the American Board of Police and Public Psychology.

He is one of 300 psychologists worldwide to have been awarded Diplomate status in Forensic Psychology from the American Board of Professional Psychology. He is the only psychologist board certified in either Police and Public Safety Psychology or Forensic Psychology in Alaska. He also holds Diplomate certification in Clinical Psychology. He is a member of various professional groups, including the APA, Alaska Psychological Association, American Academy of Forensic Sciences, Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers, Association for Scientific Advancement in Psychological Injury and Law, International Association of Chiefs of Police (life member), International Neuropsychological Society, National Academy of Neuropsychology, and the International Homicide Investigators Association. He has a combined total of more than 120 professional publications, presentations, and workshops.

Dr. Zelig has one son and four daughters. He has completed 25 marathons. After finishing the Mayor's Marathon in Anchorage in June 2005, and visiting a daughter who had moved to Skagway, Alaska, he opened an office in America's Last Frontier.
